Chinese scooter repairs

Please note the following conditions if you require service or repairs on Chinese brand scooters at our Scootling Workshop:

- In general, standard servicing and maintenance can be carried out on all Chinese scooter models.
- Unless you can provide a parts list, contact for a reliable supplier of parts and a workshop manual then we reserve the right to charge for all time taken to diagnose, search for parts, repair and test your scooter. Moreover, without the above documents we can not guarantee that any or all requested repairs can be completed.
- We reserve the right for our experienced and trained mechanics to use their best judgment in diagnosis and repair and do not accept any responsibility for misdiagnosis or losses or damages resulting from failure of your scooter to perform its expected function after we have worked on it. Due to the poor quality of materials and quality control in manufacture of Chinese scooters we will not be held responsible for any claims relating to safety or roadworthiness of your scooter after our repair.
- As there is no reliable source for higher quality replacement parts for Chinese scooters it is possible that the same part will fail repeatedly on Chinese scooters. This includes causative failures such as our higher quality tyres not being able to seal properly on Chinese scooter rims or our higher quality batteries failing due to faulty Chinese regulators on your scooter. We will not be held responsible for failure, losses or damage resulting or relating to failure of a part we have replaced on a Chinese scooter.

We do warrantee our work and parts on any brand of scooter that we sell at Scootling unless stated otherwise.

If you do not agree to the above conditions we apologise that we can not work on your bike.

Thank you
Workshop Management
